SECTION A: Art History

Either

Item 1

Paul is Ugandan Christian with passion for visiting religious historical sites. In April, he visited Rome where he saw interesting artworks made during the renaissance period but they were still very attractive. Below is an example of one of the artworks he saw.

In compulsion with his home church under reconstruction in his village, Paul came to a conclusion that there was need to borrow ideas from those used by artists who decorated the churches of the renaissance period. However, Paul is not informed about the themes that influenced the kind of artworks that were made during that time.

Task:

Advise Paul on the themes he can borrow to make his new home church under reconstruction as attractive as the early churches made during the renaissance period.

Item 2

In the proposal to fight poverty in Uganda, an organization has been advised to train the unemployed citizens with vocational skills. Much as other vocational occupations were selected, art and design was not, because the organization does not understand the contribution of art and design to the development of Uganda.

Task:

Advise the organization on the contribution of art and design to the national development of Uganda, so that the skills in the subject can also be trained to the unemployed citizens.

SECTION B (Studio TECHNOLOGY)

On visitation day, Mr. Alex visited his son and while there, he toured around the school. The Art Studio is one of the places he went to and he saw several artworks displayed in it. Some of the most outstanding pieces he saw are these below.

FigA

FigB

Mr. Alex liked the artworks and he picked interest in learning how they were made. He asked his son to explain how the artworks were made but his son had no proper response to give to his father because, he does not do art.

Task:

Formulate a write up which can guide Mr. Alex on how either Fig A or Fig B was made.

Or

David is a tour guide and an artlover as well. While from his recent tour from one of the game parks, he bought these two art pieces.

Fig B

He displayed the artworks in his parent's sitting room. With the beauty the artworks added to the sitting room, David's parents inquired from him about how the artworks were made and how useful they were, apart from adding beauty to their sitting room. However, David had no response to give. Because, he does not know much about art and design.

Task:

If you were David, how would you respond to the parents' inquiries in regards to any one of the two artworks above?
